We have with a great pleasure reported the great success of the reprint of "Campbell's Dietary Principles," in 7 vols., 12mo. which was published in these Series; and also our "Book of Botanical Diet," published in 8 vols., which has already had a second impression. We have also received a large number of communications on the Text of the "Nouveau Lexique des Arbres" by M. J. Paulet; but we have not yet succeeded in getting it in shape for printing. We have, however, taken it into consideration, and shall soon put it into the hands of a lithographer. The "Encyclopaedia Britannica," has been received in the fourth volume of the 9th Series, bound. It has been selected and arranged by a Board of Editors, who have been appointed for that purpose, and most of the articles have been revised. There are, however, a large number of tasks of the same kind which must be undertaken in the course of the year. The "Encyclopaedia Metropolitana," by Thomas Johnson, D.D., has been given to us, and it will appear in the 13th Series. Mr. Johnson is well qualified for the task he has undertaken, both by his long experience in books, and by his position in the institution from which he has received his appointment. We have in press, but do not wish to print it until it has been thoroughly revised, "The New Edition ba244e880a
